

How much total effort would be estimated for the System Meter example with all model elements classified as 'new' (72 PRE System Meter)?

Same example as the previous Q: With which value should you plan your project to be safe (with ca. 2.5% rest risk) not to underestimate?

Same example as the previous Q: And how much of this 'safe' effort estimate would go to Design and Code?

